gulate the bowels and kidneys will find the true remedy in Electric Bitters. This medicine does not stimulate and contains no whiskey nor other intoxicant, but acts functions. Electric Bitters is an excellent appetizer and aids digestion. Old people Cashier Albert E. Butler of Lawrence Commits Suicide.

Albert E. Butler, the cashier of the Arlington National Bank of Lawrence, who committed suicide Wednesday morning by shooting himself, was quite well known by many in this town, and the news of the act seemed at first incredible but later reports confirmed the sad intelligence.

Early Wednesday morning before any of his household had arisen, he went into the cellar, placed the pistol to the side of his head and fired, the ball passing through his head and out on the other side. He lived until about 1.30 p.m.

Unfortunate private investments, involving his financial affairs, together with a severe attack of the grip about three weeks ago, are said to have so crazed him with worry that he committed the deed in a moment of insanity. His affairs at the bank are reported to be all right by the president, Wm. S. Knox, and his financial difficulties are stated to be entirely of a private nature.

Mr. Butler was 35 years old, and at the time was one of the city aldermen.
He was a member of the Board of Trade, the Home and Canoe Clubs, a Mason and Odd Fellow, secretary of the Massachusetts Street Railway Association, trustee of the Lawrence Savings Bank, and director of the Rollins Club. His wife was a daughter of Hon. Byron Truell.

The Adjourned Town Meeting.

Next Monday evening at 7.30 o'clock, in the Town Hall, the town meeting, adjourned from the annual gathering of March 4, will take place, and as several matters of great importance and concern to the citizens of the town are to come up, it is urged that every voter should make an effort to be present. Of course it is generally known that the first and most important matter which was left over to the adjourned meeting was the sewage question, which in itself ought to be of interest enough to warrant a full meeting. The additional report made by the Sewer Commissioners in last week's Town Meeting was a valuable piece of information and if every citizen would read it carefully, it would enable him to act with much intelligence.

The other article left over to this meeting was in regard to revising and amending the town by-laws. Some important changes are recommended in the new code, and they should be of interest to everybody. The question of when interest shall be paid on taxes is settled in these laws, and it will be remembered that this was the source of some discussion at the annual meeting, being finally left to be settled at this meeting.

Another question which will come up is the election of a Board of Health, the one elected at town meeting, it is understood, having not been elected in proper form. They should be elected for one, two, and three years, respectively.

It is also hinted that other important things are to come up for discussion, so let us have a rousing big meeti g.

Temperance Instruction in Schools.

In an article in the March Arena advocating scientific temperance instruction in the public schools, Francis E. Willard says: "Given so much clear thought and you will get so much clear action; given so much crazed thought and you will get so much crazed action. There is not an axiom of mathematics more fixed than this physical law. The man who can't think his own thoughts though nobody hinders him, can't speak his own words though everybody wishes he could, can't use his five senses, though they were given him for that special purpose and whose cruelty is greatest towards those he loves the best, presents nature's supreme illustration of the law that alcoholic stimulants have no business in the economics of a well-ordered physical life—and time to teach this law is just as soon as a child's brain can take it. I believe this systematic instruction, which forewarns and forearm, to be the road out of bondage for the children of America. No other institution but the public schools reaches them all.

The Mark-down Fever.

The following article from the Boston correspondence in the Dry Goods Economist is an interesting treatise upon the mark-down fever which is now pervading the large business places in our cities and which has extended to some towns. It may be read with profit by everybody:

In Boston a condition exists in the retail trade which is seriously unfortunate, and yet the dealers have only themselves to blame for it. For a long time the advertising departments in most of the large houses have run away with the idea that the only way to draw trade is to impress the public that their goods are marked below what they formerly sold them at, producing the impression that the dealer is giving away his profit and more, and that the consumer is getting something for nothing.

This plan has been worked to such an extent that it has become epidemic, and many of the dealers cannot sell their merchandise unless they state that it is marked down.

A dealer told me that he put on sale a lot of hose at a quarter and found his salespeople telling trade they were 37 1/2c. When the salespeople were corrected for such statement their reply was, "We can't sell them without it."

SIGNS THAT SHOULD FAIL.

Looking through the large houses here such signs appear as "Special Mark-down sale of New Percales," "New Importation French Dress Goods Marked Down to Popular Prices," "We Received These Goods Yesterday, but to satisfy the Popular Demand Have Already Marked Them Down to 49c; Worth 72c. Per Yard." Two Thousand Five Hundred Dozen Neckties, Just Made by One of the Largest Manufacturers in the Country, at Half the Cost of Production, for the Purpose of Keeping His Help Employed; Will be Sold at 25c. Each."

What a philanthropist this manufacturer must be! Every one who stops to think knows that such a firm is over its head with legitimate work at fair prices at this time of the year.

IN THE NEWSPAPERS.

Looking through the advertisements in the papers one scarcely finds one which describes the real merits of meritorious articles, or which offers goods confidently because relying on the fact that the styles and material are likely to suit the tastes and needs of the people. On the contrary, they lay the greatest stress on the cheapness of their wares and the enormous sacrifice they are willing to make to secure the patronage of the humbugged public.

To illustrate the extent of this epidemic let me relate an incident observed in one of the largest underwear departments of this city. An old lady with a black bag on her arm (every one seems to carry a bag here), peering over her spectacles, said to a salesman, "Show me some of them undershirts. How much be they?" "Forty-nine cents, madam." "What were they before?" "They have been at no other price; they have been on sale only two days." "Well, I guess I will wait until they are marked down," and she walked away. These goods were made to sell at $3 per dozen and were the end of the manufacturer's stock, sold at a price to clear out at the end of the season.

AT THEIR WIT'S END.

This sort of thing is the rule in this town and is serious. The department men are at their wit's end to know how to counteract the epidemic. It surely seems as if, among the bright merchandisers in Boston, some means could be devised to tell the truth and sell the stuff on its merits.

If the truth were known, very often buyers would feel rather small to find that the merchant had sold them goods at double the price he originally intended getting for them. Simply because they would not move at a low price; he put a mark-down ticket and a mark-up price on them and the discriminating public flock to buy, and out they go, while the dealer smiles quietly when none is looking.

Boston is called a good market, but they do some queer things here.

WHAT "FORMERLY" MEANS.

One of last Sunday's papers in Boston contained the ad. of an old, respected carpet firm, who, after a detailed description of a lot of 700 rugs which they would sell at about 40c. on the dollar, answered the query which they put to themselves, of "Why, then, do we offer them so low?" by the reply, "Simply to attract attention to our extensive stock and unrivalled facilities." This sort of thing may go down in Boston, where the public mind is absorbed with contemplation of scientific and philosophical problems.

If the truth were known, this advertiser who states the "formerly" prices in his ad. would have to go away back for years to prove them, while he intends to have the public believe these prices ruled only lately. Has the art of advertising fallen so low as to make such methods necessary?

Such an advertiser uses in his ad. the word "originally" to satisfy his conscience, as the word reaches back as far as the flood of need be.

HUMBUGGING THE PUBLIC.

Another well-known Boston house secured a cask of chinaware which was badly damaged in transit from Europe. There was hardly a whole article in it; the contents were water-soaked. With this cask for a basis they wrote up a striking ad., claiming to have secured the importation of this sort of wares at almost nothing, and stating that they would sell it at a certain time at prices never heard of before in the history of the trade.

By a judicious distribution of this water-soaked stuff about their china department they gave the impression to the humbugged public that they were getting something for nothing and the results were highly gratifying to the dealer.

IF THEY ONLY KNEW.

If it were necessary to be dishonest in business in order to succeed, then there would be no premium on honesty, as there is everywhere to-day. If the dealers only knew how rapidly their people absorb every influence that tends to pull down rather than elevate the standard of commercial integrity, they would slow up on such methods from policy, if not for conscience sake.

There are, fortunately, conspicuous examples of phenomenally successful houses who will not allow an advertisement of any sort, be it newspaper or placard, that contains any untrue statements. Such firms say their is no need to deal in any misrepresentations, as sufficient enthusiasm can be roused with the truth in their advertisements, for "truth is stranger than fiction" and, wisely served up, does the business.

A Solution for the Tramp Question.

The town of Hanson has solved the tramp question better than any town in the county as yet heard from. The town has put up lots of tramps the past few months, but hopes to put up a smaller number in the months to come. The tramps that do apply will be given a supper, lodging and breakfast, but at seven o'clock the next morning will put at work breaking stone and kept at work until 11 o'clock. Any tramp who is able to work and refuses to perform the task will be put before the court for vagrancy.

Funny Bits.

A German scientist says that thinking is one of the chief causes of wrinkles. Perhaps this explains how our congressmen preserve their good looks. —Cincinnati Enquirer.

"The shortest marriage service in the world is that performed in the offices of the Milwaukee justices: 'Have him?' 'Yes.' 'Have her?' 'Yes.' 'Married. Two dollars.'"

Some advertisements are models of pure English, as, for instance, one concerning a nursing-bottle, which concludes with: "When the baby is done drinking, it must be unscrewed and laid in a cool place under a tap. If the baby does not thrive on fresh milk, it should be boiled." —Medical Times.

"Is your father at home?" asked Mr. Smith. "No, sir," answered Dan; "but you will find the grindstone in the shed." "I do not care for the grindstone," replied Mr. Smith. "What made you think that I did?" "Because papa says you never come here unless you have an axe to grind," answered Dan, innocently. —Young People.

"Gentlemen, I can't lie about the horse, he is blind in one eye," said the auctioneer. The horse was soon knocked down to a citizen who had been greatly struck by the auctioneer's honesty, and after paying for the horse, he said: "You were honest enough to tell me that this animal was blind in one eye. Is there any other defect?" "Yes, sir; there is. He is also blind in the other eye," was the prompt reply. —Tid-Bits.

THE ART OF COOKING A HUSBAND

An Amusing Recipe Given by a Baltimore Cooking School Lecturer.

One of the lectures before the Baltimore Cooking school recently gave this recipe for cooking a husband, which is not commonly found in books on cookery:

A good many husbands are utterly spoiled by mismanagement. Some women go about as if their husbands were balloons and blow them up. Others keep them constantly in hot water, others let them freeze by indifference and carelessness. Some keep them in a stew by irritating ways and words. Others roast them. Some keep them in pickle all their lives. It cannot be supposed that any husband will be tender and good if managed in this way, but they are really delicious when properly treated. In selecting your husband do not go to market for him, as the best are always brought to your door. It is far better to have none unless you will patiently learn how to govern him.

See that the linen in which you wrap him is properly washed and mended, with the required number of buttons and strings tightly sewed on. Tie him in the kettle by a strong silk cord called "comfort," as the one called "duty" is apt to be weak. They are apt to fall out of the kettle and be burned and crusty on the edges, since, like crabs and lobsters, you have to cook them while alive. If he spatters and fuses, do not be anxious, some husbands do this until they are called down. Add a little sugar in the form of what confectioners call kisses, but no vinegar or pepper on any account. A little apoplexy proves them, but it must be used with judgment. Do not stick any sharp instrument into him to see if he is becoming tender. Stir him gently, watching the while lest he adhere to the kettle and so become useless. You cannot fall to know when he is done. If this treatment is closely followed, you will find him all that is desirable, but do not be careless with him and keep him in too cool a place. —Exchange.

IT WAS ONLY A HAIR.

But When She Saw It on His Shoulder She Attempted Suicide.

An attempt at suicide was made by Julia Harley at the Clyde House, on Geary street, Thursday evening. The cause for it was disappointment in a love affair. Miss Harley's lover called on her during the day, and some misunderstanding arose which started a quarrel, and bitter words were used, and the two separated in anger. Half an hour later Miss Harley was discovered on her bed in a stupor, and a two ounce bottle of laudanum was lying empty by her side. The services of a doctor were procured, and after an hour's work the woman was declared out of danger.

The landlady was asked about the trouble and refused to give the man's name. "It was a trifling thing," she said. "Miss Harley's gentleman friend called on her, and she found a long black hair on his coat. Now, the lady is a blond, and she was immediately suspicious. A quarrel followed, and the stupid girl decided to end her life. The gentleman has left on a steamer, but I do not think the separation will cause the lady to attempt suicide again." —San Francisco Examiner.

A Giant Advertising For a Job.

A young man who stooped as he entered The Eagle office, and who was unable to board the passenger elevator, owing to his height, startled the attaches of the counting room as he walked over to one of the clerks and passed in the following advertisement: "A young Swedish man, 21 years of age, who is 7 feet 4 inches high, wishes a position of any kind. Charles Damberg, 533 Atlantic avenue." He is the tallest man ever seen in The Eagle building. —Brooklyn Eagle.

How Mark and Max May Settle It. Mark Twain and Max O'Rell might make that duel sufficiently deadly by undertaking to read each other's works, the man who succumbs first to be declared the loser. —Chicago Record.

MURDER CHARGES.

Twenty - Eight New Orleans Rioters Indicted.

Governor Foster is in a Quagmire on Account of Merchants Withdrawing Their Support For Troops.

NEW ORLEANS, March 21.—Fifteen indictments, charging 28 men with murder during the recent levee troubles, were returned yesterday by the grand jury.

True bills charging murder were presented against the following parties: George Doyle, Henry Madly, John Murphy, W. Mahner, J. D. Williams, Thomas Ryan, John Ferguson, William Nelson, Dave Williams, James Hawkins, Thomas Fay, Jim Perrier, Robert Kelso, Nemin Lightly, Joe Casey, James O'Brien, Martin Owens, Edwin McCue, for the murder of John Payne.

Tony Drowd, Phil Quarle and Tom Pendergast, for the murder of Henry James; same, for the murder of Morris Mitchell; same, for the murder of Fred Lopez; same, for the murder of Leonard Mallard.

Robert Brooks, Phil Mahony and Nemin Lightly, for the murder of Leonard Mallard; same, for the murder of Fred Lopez, Morris Mallard and Henry James.

William Gallie, Dave Burke and John Outlen, for the murder of John Payne; John Furness, Tom Devlin and Jack Bowen, for the murder of John Payne.

These men were arrested at various times during the troubles and committed for trial by the police justices.

Many Others Implicated.

All of the indictments contain the clause: "And other persons whose names are as yet unknown to the grand jurors, being workmen and laborers in the occupation of rolling, placing and stowing compressed cotton on board of vessels at the port of New Orleans."

Most of the men indicted have been under surveillance for several days, and it was an easy matter to locate them as soon as the capias were issued. Ten or 12 surrendered at once on learning of the indictments; a few more were in jail awaiting a preliminary hearing, and the remainder were arrested by the sheriff's deputies, re-enforced by detectives.

The difficulties which beset the governor in handling the troubles have been further complicated by a strong intimation from the merchants that no further funds will be contributed by them for the support of the troops. They ask that more decided measures should have been adopted in dealing with the rioters, and that the trouble should have been finally quieted some days ago.

The governor is in consultation with his advisers, striving to find means to provide for the support of the troops, the state militia fund being altogether inadequate for the purpose.

An Important Meeting.

The meeting next Monday evening promises to be the most important one in many years. May it be one in which a full and free exchange of ideas shall be made, and where courtesy and fairness shall mark all speech. Whatever next Monday's result, the question can only be put off, and we are firmly of the belief it would much better be decided now. And to decide it, means to go ahead.

Editorial Cinders.

A matter of considerable importance to come up next Monday evening are the new by-laws. More stringent laws are required to abate several nuisances now existing, and it is to be hoped that there will be a good display of backbone next Monday night in making such laws, and a further display of the same in enforcing them after they are made.

While Andover, like many other towns, has no legally elected Board of Health, we yet have a little advantage over some of our neighbors in having yet a live meeting in which to correct our mistake. The matter will probably be righted next Monday night.

Say we don't need sewerage, and then walk from the top of the hill to Frye Village these nice "thawey" days and see if you are of the same mind.

A good friend of the TOWNSMAN made a little complaint the other day because our editorial column dealt only with local matters. This may voice the feelings of some others among our readers to whom we want to say in answer that the TOWNSMAN is a local paper and needs to touch no field but its own. Could there be a better excuse for its "local" editorials?

There are a great many people in town who will criticize any man who is so unfortunate as to have some official duty to perform. The case in point at this time is the criticism heard in regard to the re-appointment of Jos. T. Lovejoy as superintendent of Streets. While there are things that Supt. Lovejoy can be criticised for in his doings as street superintendent the past few years, there must be due credit given to him for the work that has been really accomplished. We have often differed from Mr. Lovejoy in the method and manner of preparing a certain piece of road, but believe that what he is accomplishing as much as it is possible to expect under the present rule of a comparative small outlay and many miles of road.

Have you a concrete walk in front of your house? If you have you will recall that the town sprinkled gravel on it several times last winter. It is now covered with small pebbles which if left and trodden into the tar will seriously damage the walk. A few minutes with a broom will add much to the wear of the concrete.

Gifts to Punchard.

Mr. Myron E. Guttererson of the class of '81 has contributed to the Botanical Department forty beautifully pressed flowers which together with the few specimens that the school already possesses will form a nucleus for what we hope some day may be an herbarium of the complete flora of Andover. Mr. Guttererson is not willing to stop here, but has pledged twenty-five more for the year 1892. This sort of thing is very gratifying to all who have the welfare of the school at heart. Who will do likewise and "otherwise?"

An English prize of ten dollars to be known as "The Mary Starbuck Prize" has been given by a friend of the school. Five dollars to that member of the two upper classes who shall write the best essay of at least eight hundred words on one of these subjects: "The Club as a Social Factor," "School Life in England and America," "The Novel in Literature," and "Problems of To-day"

Five dollars to that member of the third and fourth classes who shall write the best letter of four hundred words:

The essays and letters are to be ready the first of next term. The judges are Rev. Frederic Wilson, Mrs. Frederic Palmer and Miss Susan Blake.

Abbot Academy.

The Summer term of Abbot Academy will begin next week, March 28. The term will be thirteen weeks in length, closing with the anniversary exercises, June 25.

Miss Darling, who has been ill at Draper Hall with a very mild form of diphtheria, went to her home in Brooklyn, N. Y. last Monday, 18th inst. The fumigation of the rooms that have recently been quarantined has been thoroughly done by Dr. Abbott, agent of the Board of Health; the buildings have been pronounced by expert authority to be in excellent sanitary condition. It will be remembered that the two young ladies who were ill with the dread disease had the misfortune to contract the trouble just before returning to the school from brief absences.

Annual Meeting of the McAll Mission.

The annual meeting of the Andover Auxiliary to the McAll Missionary Association was held Saturday afternoon, March 16, in the lecture room of the South Church. The old board of officers was re-elected: Miss Maria S. Merrill, president; Miss S. E. Jackson, secretary; Miss Emily Carter, treasurer. Miss Merrill is spending the year in Paris for study and recreation. A letter received from her describing her visits to some of the mission halls in Paris, was owing to the closure of Draper Hall, inaccessible for use at the meeting. Delegates were chosen to the meeting of the American Association at Pittsfield, to be held April 17 and 18. These delegates are Mrs. Maria Ellis Stork and Miss S. E. Jackson.

Rev. Thomas L. Gulick, Representative Secretary of the American Association, was present. Mr. Gulick is one of the family so well known in missionary annals. He was himself formerly a missionary in Spain. Mr. Gulick spoke of the unusual growth and success of the McAll mission, which began under most unpromising circumstances, and he quoted the commendations of such men as D. L. Moody and Dr. A. T. Peirson, of its methods and achievements.

The need of evangelical missions in France is seen in the fact that, although it is nominally a Christian country, it is practically atheistic and destitute of the Gospel. About the time Dr. McAll went to Paris, a lady traveller, having lost her Bible, sought for a new one in bookstore after bookstore, but in vain. Finally, entering one of the largest and best bookstores in Paris and inquiring for a Bible, she was told: "We have none, and, lady, it is a bad book, a vile book, which you ought not to read."

Besides giving the Bible to France, the McAll mission has introduced a new style of sacred music, Mrs. McAll and others having translated many of our popular hymns into the French, and introduced our tunes. Mr. Gulick spoke of the change as something which was striking in his successive visits to Paris. When, several years ago, he attended the Protestant churches there, he was impressed by the sad, waiting style of the religious music, but now it is glad, joyous and exhilarating. The working people and the children in the streets are singing cheerily. Often, one catches the familiar "Moody and Sankey Songs," sounding rather oddly in their new setting. Mr. Gulick gave many incidents related by the workers in France, to which an audience, chiefly of ladies, listened with great interest. At future meetings the gentlemen, as well as the ladies, will be welcomed.

Any friend desiring to contribute to the work may send to Miss Carter, Main Street.

Two Lives Saved.

Mrs. Phoebe Thomas, of Junction City Ill., was told by her doctors she had Consumption and that there was no hope for her, but two bottles of Dr. King's New Discovery completely cured her and she says it saved her life. Mr. Thomas Eggers, 139 Florida St. San Francisco, suffered from a dreadful cold, approaching Consumption, tried without result everything else then bought one bottle of Dr. King's New Discovery and in two weeks was cured. He is naturally thankful. It is such results, of which these are samples, that prove the wonderful efficacy of this medicine in Coughs and Colds. Free trial bottles at Arthur Bliss' Drug Store. Regular size 50 cents and $1.00.

A HALF CENTURY.

Supt. Jowett of Marland Mills Retires after Fifty Years of Life in the Mill.

A few words of regret, a few lines in the newspaper, and the ordinary resignation from active business is a thing of the past, to be entirely forgotten in a few weeks. But the resignation of the familiar head of the Marland Mills from his office as superintendent, and with it the laying down of a work that has made a busy life for fifty years, deserves more than such passing notice.

William H. Jowett began his work in an English mill in 1844, as so many little English lads did a half century ago, at the age of eight and a half years. A few years as a half-timer, and the large family of which he was one came to America and settled in North Andover. After a short time there in the old Hodges Mill, the boy of twelve decided he wanted to do better and came to Andover to work for Nathan Frye in the mill to which thirty years later he was to come as superintendent. There was little promise of this advance at that time. The pay day came once a month, and the young boy's first month envelope contained the large sum of $11 and a few cents. The board bill was the first item to be considered in disbursing this sum, and the boarding-mistress was asked for the amount due, at the night's home-going. $12 was the bill, and the first problem in financeering was encountered. We are glad to be able to record that both the landlady and Mr. Frye balanced a little and the next month left a balance of a few cents for spending money and clothes.

The stay at the Andover mills was not long, and Mr. Jowett was soon found at the Stevens Mills in North Andover, in the employ of the men for whom he worked the long period of forty-one years. His knowledge of that prime essential of the woolen business, the carding process, made him a valuable man, and he was soon recognized as one of the foremost carders of New England. In 1863 he left the Stevens Mills, and in company with three other gentlemen started a small mill in Lowell, where a very successful business was conducted for nearly four years. In 1868 Mr. Jowett was again found at the North Andover mill as superintendent, and his work for the Stevens firm has been uninterrupted from that year until now. In 1879 Moses T. Stevens purchased the property of the Marland Mfg Co. here in town, and so Mr. Jowett was given the hard task of renovating and improving it. How well he has done that work can only be told by those acquainted with the dilapidated condition of the plant in 1879, and with the splendidly equipped factory of today.

Mr. Jowett has been a liberal sharer in the successful results of his long career as a mill man and is possessed of a comfortable fortune. His retirement while yet possessed of so good health and so much ability to enjoy himself with his fortune, is one more sample of the good sense that has marked his many years of business life. We are glad to be able to state that Mr. Jowett will continue to make Andover his home, having now in contemplation a new residence for himself on Maple Avenue.

WEST PARISH YOUTH BUNCOED.

Alvin Lovejoy Visited Boston and Came Back $20 Poorer.

Alvin Lovejoy, son of Sylvanus Lovejoy of West Parish, is to-day probably a sadder but wiser man than he was a week ago. He went to Boston last Friday and was neatly buncoed out of $20. He was in search of employment and was standing on State Street looking up at the Exchange building, when a smooth, dapper young fellow approached and accosted him. Soon the two were in "friendly" conversation.

Alvin stated what he was looking for and his newly made "friend" promptly replied that he could find him a good job. Alvin was somewhat puzzled at the stranger's peculiar manner and remarks, but was delighted at the prospect of obtaining a job.

His acquaintance was by this time getting into his good graces sufficiently to commence the bunco act. It worked nicely. He told Alvin that he had a bill of $20 to meet at once, and the latter, probably thinking of the good job, told him he would accommodate him and drew forth $20 from his leather wallet. "Now you wait here a minute and I'll be right out," said the suave young man. Alvin stood on the curb, saw his city friend disappear into the Exchange building, and waited long for his return, but he never came back. After a while Alvin accosted a man and told him the occurrence and the latter promptly informed him that he had been "done." Lovejoy reported the affair to Capt. Donovan at Station 2.

The thief was about 22, 5 feet 7 inches in height, and would weigh about 135. He had a smooth face and wore a long blue overcoat and black derby hat.

Matrimonial.

ROGERS-EMERSON.

Alexander H. Rogers, son of our well-known real estate agent, Barnett Rogers, was married on Wednesday evening to Miss Ethel L. Emerson of Lawrence. The ceremony was performed at 7:30 o'clock, by Rev. W. E. Gibbs, at the residence of the bride's parents, 28 Summer Street. Only relatives and close friends witnessed the ceremony. The couple were unattended. The parlor, where the ceremony took place, was prettily decorated by Florist Wingate.

The ushers were Dr. A. E. Hulme of this town and Wm. Bartley and Arthur Doyle of Lawrence. Caterer Wiggin served a wedding repast after the ceremony. Mr. and Mrs. Rogers were the recipients of a large assortment of wedding gifts. They took the 9:30 train for Boston and later proceeded to New York to spend a week. On their return they will reside on Lowell Street, Lawrence.

FRANK CUNNINGHAM.

George H. Pearson, eldest son of the late Joseph J. Pearson, has joined the ranks of the benedicti. On Thursday evening of last week he was very quietly married to Miss Maggie Warcup, who for some time has been housekeeper at his home. The ceremony was performed by Rev. F. R. Shipman at the parsonage on Maple Avenue. Mr. and Mrs. Pearson will have the best wishes of a large number of acquaintances.

Frank Cunningham of West Parish died Monday evening after a short illness of pneumonia. A week before he was in apparently good health, and very few knew of his illness. Mr. Cunningham was a well known farmer in West Parish where he has resided for a number of years. He was at one time foreman at the farm of D. M. Ayer in Methuen. He leaves a widow, an aged mother, one brother and three sisters. The funeral took place yesterday morning at St. Patrick's Church in Lawrence, burial being at the Immaculate Conception Cemetery.

Bella McKenzie.

The sudden death of Miss Bella McKenzie, only daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Alexander McKenzie, at her home in Abbott Village last Friday afternoon, was a sad surprise to her many friends. Her illness being of less than twenty-four hours duration, the notice of her death was almost the first inkling her friends obtained that she was not as well as usual. Broncho-pneumonia was the trouble which caused her death.

Deceased was 20 years old, and a respected young lady. She possessed a kind and gentle disposition and was popular among a large number of friends and associates. To her parents her death comes as a great shock, and they have the sincere sympathy of the community.

Funeral services were held on Monday afternoon at the family home and were conducted by Rev. Frederic Palmer of Christ Church. The floral tributes were many and beautiful. The bearers were George D. Lawson, James Campbell, Thomas Kydd and James Anderson. The remains were placed in the tomb at Spring Grove Cemetery.

In a recent editorial, the Salem, Oregon, Independent says: "Time and again have we seen Chamberlain's Cough Remedy tried and never without the most satisfactory results. Whenever we see a person afflicted with hoarseness, with a cough or cold, we invariably advise them to get Chamberlain's Cough Remedy; and when they do, they never regret it. It always does the work, and does it well." For sale by all druggists.

BALLARD VALE.

Mr. Richard Sherry is having a stable erected at his place on Chester St.

Mr. and Mrs. William Matthews are receiving congratulations upon the birth of a son this A.M.

Mr. James Henderson, Jr., will move into the house recently occupied by Mr. Jos. Gardner.

The ladies of the Methodist Church will give an orange supper and social at the parsonage next Wednesday evening. A cordial invitation is extended to all to attend.

The dramatic entertainment given in Bradlee Hall last Tuesday evening under the auspices of the Y. P. L. L. attracted a good audience and must have netted a tidy little sum to the M. E. Church for whose benefit it was given. The different characters were well assumed, J. Edward Newcomb as Pretzel and Miss Annie Wood in the part of Prudence Granger being particularly good.

About nine o'clock last Tuesday evening death for the first time visited the home of Mr. Alexander Derrah on Centre St. when Mr. and Mrs. Derrah were called upon to part with their youngest daughter, Miss Mattie E. Derrah, aged 19 years, 2 months and 15 days. Death which was foreseen a number of days ago was the result of a brief illness of heart disease. She was born in this village where she has always resided. Of a quiet disposition she was deservedly popular among her friends of whom she possessed a large number.

Funeral services in charge of Ballardvale Lodge of Good Templars, of which the deceased was a member, were held at the late home Thursday afternoon at 2 o'clock. Messrs. George Miller, Cecil Clemons, William Stark and Converse Parker served as bearers. Among many elegant tributes offered in loving memory of the deceased was a beautiful floral pillow from the brothers and sisters; set piece "Gates Ajar" from her shop-mates in Tyer Rubber Co., Andover; a cross from the I. O. G. T. and a large number of other rare flowers from relatives and friends.

Card.

We desire to express our gratitude for the help and sympathy received from kind friends and neighbors in our affliction.

ACTORS BY NATURE.

ALL ARE SUCH, ACCORDING TO AN INSTRUCTOR IN STAGECRAFT.Every Child, He Says, Is Born an Actor, but the Gift Is In Most Cases Soon Marred by Self-Consciousness—Early Training and Its Powerful Effect.

"The ability to express, in voice and face and motion, the ideal which the mind conceives is the actor's talisman of success," said a well known instructor in one of the dramatic schools when asked to define the essential qualification of an aspirant for dramatic honors.
"Not to represent a character, but to be it, is what wins the audience. Great earnestness counts, of course, and delicacy of conception, careful training, experience, and all that, but complete abandon to the emotions of the moment is what aways men's minds. That is genius!"

"Every child is a born actor," he went on, "and to prove that we have only to watch the expression and movements of a little child when it is in a room by itself and is unaware of spectators. It will be imitating in pantomime the persons and animals it knows or has seen. Enter the room and ask the little one to do that over for uncle or aunt, or whoever it may be, and immediately there is a change. Self-consciousness has come in with the looker on, and the child is constrained and shy. The grace of movement, the bright, animated gesture and inimitable expression are gone. As the child grows older this constraint, this repression, increases, particularly in America, where, from babyhood, she is taught to disguise her real feelings. 'You must not laugh loud, it isn't refined; you must walk quietly and sedately and not attract attention.'"

"This is a sample of the lesson of self-repression, inculcated line upon line, precept upon precept, day after day, until the real nature becomes walled in within the artificial one. When that girl gets to be 30 or more, she has a yearning for the stage. She feels that she can portray some of the characters which so interest and appeal to her. She enters a dramatic school; but alas, it is too late. The desire to act is there, and the accurate conception, but the artificial routine so instilled by precept and practice has become inextricably interwoven with the natural instinct, and it cannot be eradicated. She is in the shackles of self-consciousness."

"My greatest find in the last year or two," continued the speaker, "is a young Pennsylvania girl who came to me with her mother last season. 'My daughter has been educated in Paris, and she is most anxious to go on the stage. She feels that she can do something in that line and will not be contented until she tries,' said the mother.
I looked at the girl, who sat quietly by, with rather an indifferent expression on her face, and was not prepared to find in her anything very promising. She was about 17, very dark and quite good looking. I asked her to recite something.
She stood up and began to recite a poem about an Indian nurse. The nurse was foster mother to a king's son, had nursed him at her breast along with her own child of the same age. In a revolution the mob came to kill the king's son, and the nurse, in loyalty to her sovereign, substituted her baby for the heir. Before the girl was half through with the story I had to stop her. The tears were running down her cheeks, and I realized that my own eyes were moist. That girl is going to make a name for herself. She seemed to acquire by intuition what other pupils would take months to learn. I attribute her extraordinary power of expression to her having been brought up in Paris, free and unconstrained in an atmosphere where every one is enthusiastic and is not ashamed of it, and where emotion is expressed naturally."

"After a brief interval of instruction I placed her on the road where she would come directly in contact with the technicalities of the business and have the advantage of being with a good company. It will not be long before the public hears from her."

"It has been my experience that the French, Italian, Spanish, Mexican, Hebrew—any of the southern races—possess this nameless abandonment, this personal magnetism, as it were, in excess of any other nation," continued the speaker. "And where it is found in an eminent degree in Americans they generally have some strain of foreign blood.
Americans make unsurpassed character actors—that is, when we wish to per-sonate miners, westerners, New Englanders, farmers, darkies, any of the various phases of typical American life, we find ample material right at hand.
If, however, we wish to depict a drawing room scene with setting complete and to the life, we must call on a foreign country for the actors. It is a laundeable fact that, so far as the stage is concerned, we must go to England for our gentlemen. For some reason the leisure class in America, the men of breeding and culture, when choosing a profession, do not select the stage. It may be that the calling of an actor is not looked upon, on this side of the water, as sufficiently dignified; but, be that as it may, of all the applicants for histrionic honors in this country only a few of them are recruited from the ranks of recognized gentlemen's sons.
In England it is different. There are numbers of younger sons there who have no money, who are debarrd from going into trade on account of the family recutcheon, who have not the mental ability to become doctors and lawyers, and to whom the stage offers a practical and interesting solution of the dilemma. They make first class actors for the parts we need, because they possess the one indispensable qualification of having come straight from the drawing room, bringing their faultless manners with them."—New York Sun.

TRANSPERENCE OF THOUGHT.

Telepathy Opens a Great Field For Investigation by Metaphysicians.

No field of investigation so pregnant with interest has been as timidly abandoned to charlatans as the domain of telepathy. Until very recent times it has been almost entirely in the custody of mountebanks, empirics of the worst type, whose claims to consideration rested on cunning, shrewdness and lack of scruple. If we pause to consider that the phenomenon of thought transference both in the waking and sleeping condition was the initial inspiration that evolved the science of metaphysics, we may more nearly appreciate how foolishly workers in the higher spheres of thought have relinquished the keystone of psychology to the most blatant types of quackery.

Telepathy means the transference of thought, feelings, sensations, etc., from one person to another by some means other than the recognized sense perceptions of the recipient. It is the communication between mind and mind otherwise than through the known channels of the senses.

The first notable fact in conjunction with this class of cases is that we invariably find a keen, sympathetic bond between the "agent" and "percipient," that is either the result of blood tie, as in the case of relatives and between husband and wife, or it is cultivated intercourse, as between friends, or is the outcome of a joint aspiration found among those who seek a common goal.

That this thought transference has taken place between persons in close sympathy with each other is an admitted fact. The following case is selected from the researches of the Society For Psychical Research, they having verified the embodied facts:

"Mrs. Kenon Bruce started from England to America to join her husband in Nebraska. On board ship shortly after it left Queenstown she fell ill and became delirious. She saw her husband lying dead in the middle of a field, and her agony was excessive. On arriving in New York she received a telegram stating that Mr. Bruce was thrown from a horse and had broken his neck, and this occurred at the very hour when she, thousands of miles away on board ship, said she saw him lying dead in the field, as, in fact, he was at the time."

In this case the elements of collusion and muscle reading are certainly eliminated.—"Travels of Thought" in Boston Herald.

BRADLAUGH'S LECTURE.

The Money He Made and the Easy Life He Was Leading.

I had lectured in Edinburgh in midwinter. The audience was small, the profits microscopic. After paying my bill at the Temperance hotel, where I then staid, I had only a few shillings more than my parliamentary fare to Bolton, where I was next to lecture.
I was out of bed at 5 on a freezing morning and could have no breakfast, as the people were not up. I carried my luggage—a big tin box corded round, which then held the book, and clothes, and a small black bag—for I could not spare any of my scanty cash for a conveyance or porter.

The train from Edinburgh being delayed by a severe snowstorm, the corresponding parliamentary had left Car-lsruhe long before our arrival. In order to reach Bolton in time for my lecture I had to book by a quick train starting in about three-quarters of an hour, but could only book to Preston, as the increased fare took all my money except 4½ pence. With this small sum I could get no refreshment in the station, but in a little shop in a street outside I got a mug of hot tea and a little hot meat pie.

From Preston I got with great difficulty on to Bolton, handing my black bag to the station master there as security for my fare from Preston until the morning. I arrived in Bolton about 7:45.
The lecture commenced at 8, and I, having barely time to run to my lodgings and wash and change, went on to the platform cold and hungry. I shall never forget that lecture. It was in an old Unitarian chapel.

We had no gas; the building seemed full of a foggy mist and was imperfec-tly lit with candles. Everything appeared cold, cheerless and gloomy. The most amusing feature was that an opponent endowed with extra piety and forbearance chose that evening to especially attack me for the money making and easy life I was leading.—Charles Brad-laugh in "A Record of His Life by His Daughter."

Circumstantial.

The Springfield Union tells a story of the late George W. Stearns. He was defending a young fellow for larceny, the evidence against whom was only circumstantial. Stearns urged that circumstantial evidence ought never to convict a man. "Why," said the counsel, "when I was a boy I remember a playmate of mine who, while his parents were absent, went to the pantry and nearly devoured a big custard pie before he thought of the paternal strap. When he did, he looked around for some means of hiding the traces of his guilt. He saw the family cat in the corner, and taking pass by the neck, and carefully smearing her paws with the custard, took the guilty cat out into the back yard and shot her. As the shotgun rang out the boy observed to me with a chuckle, 'There goes one more victim of circumstantial evidence.' The jury disagreed."

MILLIONS AT STAKE.

LEGAL GIANTS BATTLING OVER THE INCOME TAX LAW.Ten Picture of the Men Engaged in the Great Fight Before the Supreme Court That Will Add or Cut Off $20,000,000 of Uncle Sam's Revenue.

The income tax cases, as they are popularly known, have been brought for the purpose of testing the power of the government through its legislative branch, to impose taxes upon the incomes of the citizen. A New York stockbroker named John G. Moore applied to the court of the District of Columbia for an injunction to prevent the commission of the internal revenue from collecting the tax. The local court, Judge Hagner, granted that he had no power to issue the injunction until the government had proceeded to enforce the tax. Incidentally he also held that the tax was constitutional. An appeal to the court of appeals sustained Judge Hagner in his first position, but the second was not discussed. Then the supreme court was appealed to for a final decision. In the meantime the stockholders of the Farmers' Trust company and the Continental Trust company, in New York, sought to enjoin those corporations from paying the tax, and this suit in time also reached the highest tribunal.

For several days the arguments have been in progress. There is a full bench, save for the vacant chair which tells in its pathetic emptiness of the sad illness of Justice Jackson. The diminutive Fuller, crowned with a great shock of white hair, occupies the central place, made illustrious by Jay and Marshall and Chase. To his right sits the venerable Field, long since past the age which entitles him to retirement, the massive Gray and the thoughtful yet witty Brown. Upon his left are the smooth and round faced Harlan, upon whose placid countenance no longer rest the memories of political struggles; the able Brewer, with features of ecclesiastical mold; Sutherland, austere upon the bench and when he dejects his shaven crown, and the active, almost boyish White, the sole representative of the great south. Very attentive are they to the words which are uttered in their hearing. Sometimes a question or two give evidence that the seed of argument is falling upon fallow ground. But more generally they sit in silence, with hands supporting studious brows, with eyes fixed upon the learned counsel.

Of all the lawyers who have gathered to fight this great legal battle the most prominent is ex Senator Edmunds. His broad expanse of brow is highlighted by a black skullcap, while his bending shoulders are wrapped in an old fashioned cape.
He has reached the threescore years and ten allotted to man's life, but there are still the sturdy figure and the vigorous mentality. As he talked, unfolding with great clearness and perspicuity his argument against the validity of the tax, there was no decrease of intellectual strength or lack of power. He enjoys, too, the full measure of shrewd Yankee wit, and he knows how to attractively garnish, so to speak, the solid pabulum which he furnishes to the court.

Not so well known, but fast making an enviable name for himself, is W. D. Guthrie, a black haired, dark mustached man.
Beginning life as a stenographer in a law firm, he has risen to a foremost place as the firm, being associated with Clarence A. Seward and now occupying second place in the firm where once he was little more than a subordinate. Joseph H.
Choate is another New York lawyer in this case who has achieved fame and wealth in his profession.

Attorney General Olney and James C.
Carter of New York are bearing the brunt of the fight for the constitutionality of the tax. Mr. Olney, whose life has been devoted to defending and advising corporations, is in a strange role. His argument, however, was terse, logical and earnest.
He is not an orator. His voice does not yield readily to the thousand and one tricks of inflection and modulation which attract the ear. He speaks in a conversational tone, addressing himself purely to the court and apparently unconscious and unconcerned about the listening crowd. He has a good command of language, but indulges in no rhetoric. His talk, in fact, is characteristic of his looks —pertinacious, inflexible, confident.

Mr. Carter is in appearance a prosperous merchant. His well fed form, his carefully trimmed gray burnside whiskers and his neat fitting clothes betoken a man with whom the world has dealt well. He speaks with excellent voice, rarely refers to his notes and uses appropriate gestures.
He went to Paris, as will be remembered, with the Bering sea commission, is a personal friend of President Cleveland, and once, according to rumor, was to have had a seat upon the supreme court bench.

It is expected that the court, after two weeks of consideration, will render a decision in these important cases. Should the judgment of the court be against the income tax the government will find itself deprived of a means of revenue upon which it has largely depended. The estimates of the receipts from internal revenue, as made by the commissioner, aggregated $171,000,000, but of this amount $20,000,000 or more were to come from the income tax. If the internal revenue receipts continue to fall off as they are now doing and the income tax is declared unconstitutional, the situation for the treasury will be critical. The national finances are in no condition now to be deprived of some $20,000,000 or $30,000,000 should the unexpected happen and the decision be adverse to the tax, an extra session of congress would have to be called to provide means for raising revenue.—

Sibley the Moses of Silver.

Congressman Sibley, who is to be the silver party's presidential figurehead, is a tall and slender man of about 49 years.
His face is beardless and he is said to have the grace of a courtier, though he has been known to forget his manners in striving to be alliterative. Mr. Sibley is a rich farmer and has an interest besides in several manufacturing industries.—

The Bull and the Jack Pot.

The weather is so fine in New Jersey that the young men can play poker outdoors. The other day 14 of them got into a jack pot at a place called Watessing.
Along came a bull, which belonged in the field, and the party scattered, leaving cards and chips behind. They were nifty players, but they couldn't stand the anticipated raise.—Buffalo Express.

From Dreisigackerpreis to Ackerpreis.

Nobody in Judge Giegerich's court of common pleas was surprised when Mr.
John Dreisigackerpreis made formal application to the court for permission to change his name. It showed a pleasant state of family harmony, too, when the petition was granted in person by Mrs.
Dreisigackerpreis and the two Misses Dreisigackerpreis. Nobody was surprised either when the court promptly granted the request. But there was a general laugh when it was learned that the gentleman with the alphabetical name, instead of wanting to change it to Smith, Brown or Price, only wanted it cut down to Akkerpreis.—New York Herald.

Tribby's Foot on the Stage.

In speaking of Paul M. Potter's dramatic version of "Tribby" recently produced in Boston, The Herald says: "It is reprob-ably suggested that Mr. Palmer should engage an artist of merit to draw the famous foot on the studio wall. As it stands now the line, 'There's not another foot like it in Paris,' occasioned a group, ending with the audible remark, 'I should hope not.' It would be so easy to have a pretty foot. Even that far liar advertisement of a local chiropodist would be an improvement on this imaginary sketch by Little Billie."

MONROE DOCTRINE.

May Need New Interpretation to Bring England to Time.

Britishers' Severe Demands Upon Nicaragua May Result In Lively Diplomatic Sparring Between Great Nations.

WASHINGTON, March 19.—It is impossible to learn positively whether the state department has been fully advised officially of the severe demands made upon Nicaragua by Great Britain, as reported in the cable dispatches from Managua; but from the fact that General Barrios, who was appointed a special ambassador by the Nicaraguan government to endeavor to settle their differences with Great Britain, has been in Washington for a week, and has paid several visits to the state department in company with Dr. Guzman, the resident Nicaraguan minister, it is assumed that our own government is fully posted in regard to the matter.

It cannot be denied that this new incident, taken in connection with the hostile attitude of Great Britain toward our sister republic of Venezuela, promises to lead to trouble of a character much more serious than the little incident of the Alliance affair, which has caused such a commotion.

The administration is evidently about to be put in a position where it must lay down a new construction of the Monroe doctrine, or else abandon all concern in the small republics of Central and South America. In Venezuela, it is alleged, that the British are steadily extending their boundary line and encroaching upon Venezuelan territory, in spite of the strong protests of the Venezuelan government, and the repeated urging of the United States that the question of the boundary should be settled by

A Resort to Arbitration, not of a part of the question, excluding the main issue as desired by Great Britain, but by the submission of the whole issue.

But there are also questions of indemnity arising in Venezuela, growing out of claims preferred by other European nations, and there are indications noted by officials here to show that these are being pressed by concerted action. Many of the claims for indemnity grow out of the failure of these republics to meet their obligations to foreign nations under the stress of hard times and the influence of the world-wide depression in trade.

As the European governments appear to be moving to collect these individual debts on their own account, it is a question that the United States must speedily settle as to how far it is prepared to permit this process to go on. As to Nicaragua, it is felt here that the terms of the British ultimatum are unduly severe.

Besides, there is a rather disagreeable reflection upon American citizens in the stipulation that none such shall serve on the commission to adjudicate the damages. On the whole, it is more than probable that the president will feel called upon to interpose to secure, at least, amelioration of the terms of the ultimatum by an appeal to the British government, representing the great hardship that it will work to Nicaragua, under the present depressed condition of her finances, to prefer a demand for so large an indemnity as $75,000.

England's Ultimatum to Nicaragua demands a cash indemnity of $15,000 as arrears of money to pay for the expulsion of Mr. Huish, British consular agent at Bluefields, during the troubles there last year, and also the appointment of a commission to adjudicate the damages sustained by the persons and property of British subjects who were expelled from the Mosquito reservation about the same time.

By the terms of the ultimatum, Great Britain is to name one of the commissioners and Nicaragua the other, and these two are to choose a third who shall not be a citizen of the United States. It was also made known that a British warship is now on her way to Nicaragua to enforce the demands, which must be complied with within seven weeks from Feb. 25 last, the day of the ultimatum.

NO BACKWARD STEP.

Faculty of Harvard Deliber Another Blow at Football Games.

CAMBRIDGE, March 20.—The Harvard faculty yesterday afternoon again took a firm stand against intercollegiate football contests, and it looks doubtful if the Crimson will be represented by an eleven on the gridiron next fall. The motion adopted was worded as follows:

The faculty, having received and considered a communication from the committee on the regulation of athletic sports, dated Feb. 23, 1895, remain of the opinion that no student under their charge should be permitted to take part in intercollegiate football contests.

The communication referred to was a statement prepared by the athletic committee appointed by the college corporation to have supervision in such cases as this. At its former meeting the faculty recommended the abolition of intercollegiate football to the athletic committee. The latter replied by suggesting certain modifications of the game, instead of its utter abolition.

Yesterday's action is not final; it is sufficiently prohibitive to prevent the game, for, while the faculty may not have power to abolish contests, they can prohibit the men from engaging in them, which is sufficient. Another meeting of the faculty will be held April 2, when final and decisive action on the question is anticipated.

Killed His Brother. BANGOR, March 20.—In North Carmel, 10 miles from this city, Charles Frank Thompson, aged 37, killed his brother Edward, 47, Monday night. Frank, with his wife and three children, lived in the old homestead with the elder brother. The brothers raised many cattle and shipped them to Boston, deriving quite a large income. To their neighbors it was known that there were many family quarrels, some of them most bitter. Edward seemed to be the more quarrelsome, and on Monday night, while crazed with drink, he murderously attacked his sister-in-law. Frank rushed to his wife's rescue, and during the fight picked up a heavy stick and dashed his brother's brains out.

Still a Secret. WASHINGTON, March 21.—The Hawaiian minister, Mr. Thurston, still declines to discuss the report that Secretary Gresham has asked his government to recall him. He maintains what is officially known as a "diplomatic silence" with respect to the matter, and, politically, he refuses either to deny or affirm the correctness of the story.

Women's Vain Hope. AUGUSTA, March 21.—The women suffrage bill suffered defeat in the senate yesterday by a vote of 15 to 11. The chamber was crowded with ladies from all parts of the state, many of whom hope that the house, which acted favorably on the bill, may refuse to concur with the senate in killing the bill.

May Be Guiltless. PROVIDENCE, March 16.—A petition is being circulated asking for the pardon of Daniel D. Sullivan, who is serving a life sentence at Cranston prison for the killing of Anthony S. Haswell in 1890. The petitioners claim that new evidence has been found which proves that Sullivan is guiltless.

Mill Corporation Fined. FALL RIVER, March 20.—The officials of the Union mills yesterday pleaded guilty to the charge of employing women more than 68 hours a week. The corporation was fined $100 in one case, $65 in another and three cases were filed.
